Fulshear Treatment to Transition and Calo Young Adults Partner

TEMPE, ARIZONA, September 10, 2019 -- In an effort to provide young adult clients the very best in behavioral and mental health treatment, Calo Young Adults is partnering with Fulshear Treatment to Transition, effective September 10, 2019. This powerful partnership will increase the reach of the Fulshear Adult Attachment Model with an emphasis on the Art of Transition and the essential component of treatment to transition.

Fulshear Treatment to Transition is a national leader in residential treatment and transitional living for young adult women. Fulshear has led the way in young adult attachment work and has been recognized as one of the country's most admired programs. Along with attachment work, Fulshear provides cutting-edge trauma treatment for young adults through a developmental trauma and attachment lens. This lens restores dignity, personal power and relational alignment to those young adults who have sought answers to mental health and addiction challenges for years.

"The partnership of these two programs marks the realization of a dream to expand access to the Fulshear adult attachment model regionally and to all genders," said Nikki Garza, new CEO of Fulshear Programs. "This union is a natural step, taking advantage of the powerful synergy between the Fulshear and Calo team to help young adults develop healthy attachments and create a personal design for their life."

Calo Young Adults, located in Winchester, Virginia will now be known as Fulshear Treatment to Transition East and will serve all genders. The original program in Houston, Texas will now be known as Fulshear Treatment to Transition South and will continue to provide the excellence you have come to rely on with young adult women.
